Don Towsley Wins 2008 ACM SIGCOMM Award

Professor Don Towsley was awarded the highest honor from ACM SIGCOMM, for his contributions to the modeling, analysis, and control of communication networks in the computer networking field. Towsley will receive this award and deliver a keynote address at the ACM SIGCOMM annual conference on August 19 in Seattle, WA.

Seeking Site Proposals for SIGCOMM 2010

SIGCOMM is actively soliciting site proposals for the 2010 conference. In keeping with past practice, the 2010 conference will be held at a site outside of Europe and North America. Site proposals are short (one page); requirements are described at:

<http://www.sigcomm.org/about/policies/sigcomm-planning/site-proposal-instructions/>

Site proposals should be sent by email to the SIGCOMM Conference Coordinator, Jaudelice de Oliveira (jau@cbis.ece.drexel.edu). Proposals are due by Sept. 30, 2008.
